

The A-Mon
Yough-A-Mon

Foreword

This book tells the story of McKeesport High School during the 1948 to 1949 school year.

For the student of McKeesport High, this book is a storehouse of recollection for an intimate part of his life. For his parents, who know the school only at a distance, this book is a show window of information. For both student and parent the book will keep the school year alive.

And so, reader, whether you turn the pages in memory or in discovery, you are invited to follow these parents as they begin their journey through our school.

Dedication

We dedicate the 1949 Yough-A-Mon to the parents of the students of McKeesport High School. They have provided the care, the homes, and the guidance which have made possible our life in school. Always must home and school stand hand in hand to educate the young for adult life in their community and country. Each has values to infuse, values of culture, honor, and knowledge. And while the parents cannot prepare their children for the future without the help of the school, neither can the school give its students all they must have without the constant partnership of the parents. Home is the child's first school, and his parents are his greatest teachers.

Busy Fifth Avenue, McKeesport's leading business thoroughfare, is lined with attractive stores that invite crowds of shoppers from neighboring communities as well as McKeesport's own citizens. Biggest day of the week is Saturday when sidewalks swarm from morning with its long shadows until evening when myriad lights glitter from windows and signs.

One of the many quiet, tree-lined residential districts that are everywhere throughout the city.

Stretched the length of town along the Monongehela are the mills — United States Steel's Tube Works, pulsing with activity by day, glowing crimson by night.

THIS IS OUR CITY . . .

One hundred and fifty-four years ago, in 1795, when John McKee laid out the first streets of the town he chose to name in honor of his father, David, his most ambitious dream could not have conceived the city of nearly 60,000 people that now covers the hills and valleys of what were then timbered slopes.

The first white settler to be taken by the beauty of the confluence of the Monongahela and the Youghiogheny Rivers was David McKee, who established a ferry here in 1769, six years before the flames broke out at Lexington which were to end in a blaze of freedom for a young republic.

The tiny settlement expanded house by house and more farm land was cleared, but development was slow until the discovery of coal in 1830. Twelve years later McKeesport was large enough to be incorporated as a borough, and its growth continued until 1890 when with a population of 20,741, it was chartered as a city, ninety-five years after son John had drawn his plan. Within the next twenty years the population was to double, reaching 42,694 by 1910.

Today McKeesport is the hub of a wheel of communities which have spread around it, communities like Versailles, Port Vue, Dravosburg, White Oaks, Liberty, North and South Versailles, Greenock, Eden Park, Boston, and Lincoln whose children join those of our city in McKeesport High School.

Numerous churches throughout the town provide everyone with a place of worship of his own choosing. . . . McKeesport's "Times Square" (below) where old timers say a spectator will see everyone who lives in the city pass by.

Long and low, Vocational School sparkles in the morning sun. An ideal setting and a freshness that nine years of service have not tarnished make this school the city's pride.

THE SCHOOLS

High on the hill overlooking downtown McKeesport, Tech High is "my school" to hundreds of teen-agers.

From Shaw Avenue and George Washington to Tech High and Vocational High goes the path toward graduation. Ninth grade students who choose to follow vocational studies make "Voc" their home for the next three years. Freshmen electing college preparatory and commercial courses come to "Tech" for the final years of their public school education.

During this school year 3140 students made daily pilgrimages to these four buildings that together are McKeesport High School. At Shaw Avenue were enrolled 410 pupils; at George Washington, 430; at Vocational, 600; at Tech High, 1700. From these buildings this June go nearly 800 graduates, taking with them the experiences of four crowded years into the factory, the college, the hospital, the home, the store, the office, into the community . . . and into adult life.

Once the only high school in the city, Shaw Avenue building still serves the school public after almost fifty years. . . Its companion for housing the ninth grade is the George Washington building whose severe facade belies the warmth within.

The first School Board meeting in its new modern quarters in the Shaw Avenue School on February 14, 1949. Seated in the front row are Directors Mrs. Elizabeth H. Newlin, Mr. T. D. McKee, Mrs. Lucy Lee Jones, Mr. S. H. Hirshberg, Mr. James M. Guffey, Mr. Edward C. Bowden. In the second row are Director Dr. Robert M. Heft, Clerk Miss M. Rigby Hill, Secretary and Business Manager Dr. Leo R. Travis, Director and President Dr. H. S. Arthur, Superintendent of Schools Dr. James H. Lawson, Solicitor Noel A. Calhoun, and Director Mr. Charles H. Starr.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The affairs of the School District are in charge of the Board of Directors. Elected by the public to serve terms of six years, the nine directors are responsible for such duties as purchasing supplies, electing teachers, handling finances, and maintaining school buildings. Much of the directors' work is accomplished in committees like the one shown at the left. Committee recommendations are considered at full board sessions.

Superintendent of Schools

The Superintendent at his desk in his office in the Shaw Avenue Building where an informal atmosphere always puts a visitor at ease.

Dr. James H. Lawson has completed his fourteenth year as Superintendent of the McKeesport Schools. Dr. Lawson came to McKeesport in the fall of 1920 to teach mathematics, the subject he had previously taught at Parkersburg, West Virginia, and at Jellico, Tennessee. In 1924 he became assistant principal of the High School, a position he held until he was elected Superintendent of Schools in 1935.

Dr. McElroy looks up from reading a report to greet a visitor.

ADMINISTRATION

Principal of the High School, Dr. Howard C. McElroy, and his assistant, Mr. John S. McFeaters, direct a school with 1700 pupils and 74 teachers. Joining the system in 1921, both men have been with the McKeesport Schools for twenty-eight years. Dr. McElroy taught French until 1929 when he became principal of George Washington School. In 1935 he was named assistant principal of the High School, and then principal in 1939, upon the retirement of Mr. John F. Bower. Mr. McFeaters taught mathematics until 1927, and was principal of Fifth Avenue School for two years and of Centennial School for six years. In 1935 he became principal of George Washington School, and in 1939 assistant principal of the High School.

Mr. McFeaters checks an attendance report in his third floor office.

Director of Vocational Education, Bert Johnson, makes arrangements with state authorities for apprentice classes offered by the school.

Since its doors were opened to students in September, 1940, the Vocational School has been in charge of Mr. Frank J. Weigle. A former teacher in McKeesport High School and for five years principal of the Shaw Avenue Building, Mr. Weigle has spent thirty of his thirty-six years in school business with the McKeesport system. Mr. Bert Johnson, Director of Vocational Education, has been a part of the Vocational School administrative staff for the same nine years. Formerly a teacher of industrial arts in the McKeesport High School, his duties as director now put him in charge of planning shop courses and supervising shop equipment.

Mr. Frank J. Weigle, principal of the Vocational School, announces an assembly program over the public address system.

Principal of Shaw Avenue School, Mr. F. Frank Crall takes time out to glance at the morning mail. Beginning his teaching career in a Missouri country school in 1909, Mr. Crall taught history classes in McKeesport High from 1920 to 1936 and was the first student counselor from 1935 until 1940 when he became principal of Shaw Avenue.

ADMINISTRATION

Mr. Arthur O. Horn, principal of George Washington School, talks things over with a parent. This is Mr. Horn's tenth year as head of George Washington. Previous to this he was principal of Centennial School for four years and of Fifth Avenue School for two years. He was a classroom teacher for four years, two in Jeannette, Pennsylvania, and two in McKeesport.

Mr. Shelby Erwin, student counselor, points out to Jack Butler the requirements for admission to engineering schools. Mr. Erwin advises students of employment opportunities and of college requirements and directs them to the studies they will need to prepare themselves for their ambitions.

Physical examinations are given each year to freshmen and juniors. Dr. Caleb McCune uses his stethoscope on Roberta Everett, while Nurse Dorothy Packard gets ready to weigh Alan Rubenstein and Nurse Rose Scott takes the pulse of Jeanne Colditz.

Patricia Farrell and Vera Thomas talk about nurses' training with Miss Gertrude Brown, girls' adviser, in her third floor office. A sympathetic listener, Miss Brown is always ready to discuss problems, whether they are about school or about the future.

THE FACULTY

School is many things. It is the buildings, the books, the pupils, the grade cards, friends, examinations. And school is the teachers, too. More than just instructors of subject material, faculty members are counselors and friends, giving guidance, providing inspiration, and bringing culture as well as learning. So, memories of school life are linked always with remembrances of teachers. There were moments of awe when a stern tone dismayed the lower classman; carefree moments when the teacher's wit brought smiles; moments of gratitude when some shortcoming met encouragement instead of expected displeasure; glowing moments of satisfaction when praise rewarded a job well done. School experience blends into school memory, and into the web of school memory is woven the fellowship of the teacher.

Miss Engels listens to the clatter of machines as transcription students take a timed-writing practice. Transcription provides training in setting up material which has previously been dictated.

Mr. Quinn supervises a ninth grade grammar exercise.

Tech High offers four courses for its pupils: College Preparatory, Academic, Commercial, and Business. The College Preparatory Curriculum provides the necessary background and equipment for entrance to institutions of higher learning. Algebra and geometry, Latin, German, French, and Spanish, composition, literature, history and economics, biology, chemistry and physics are among the studies offered to suit the needs of the college-bound.

The Academic Curriculum is for the students who do not need the more technical information necessary for college admission, and who intend to enter the job market of industry and business. A good general education is provided with required classes in English and social studies supplemented by electives which may include mathematics, sciences, languages, bookkeeping, and home economics.

Technical business courses enabling graduates to fill secretarial and accounting positions are provided by the Commercial Curriculum with classes in shorthand, transcription, bookkeeping, clerical practice, salesmanship, business machines, and rapid calculation in addition to a broader educational background with composition, literature, civics, geography, and history.

Similar to Commercial is the Business Curriculum which offers training for business of a less technical nature. Classes in bookkeeping and clerical practice may be varied with sciences, social studies, and home economics.

The textbook joins the tools on the work bench in this radio class. Under the direction of Mr. Lanks, these students study the theory of different types of radio and related fields, applying it to actual repair work.

An English literature class at Vocational High gives its attention to Mr. Ferguson's discussion of the novel, "Fortitude." The cultural values of literature and history are woven into the vocational courses with alternating weeks being spent in shop work and in the formal classroom.

Mr. Primavera's class in Vocational School's room 223 shows the variety of projects that makes commercial art endlessly interesting. All commercial applications of art are considered. Painting, sketching, and sign-making for the holiday season are enthusiastically engaged in beneath Indian murals painted by former commercial art students.

Learning can be fun. John Bringe amuses as well as edifies his classmates in Mr. Bowen's solid geometry class with a demonstration model used to prove a proposition. Higher mathematics classes are crowded with boys aspiring to engineering.

The Vocational Industrial Curriculum, in which the Vocational school specializes, is designed to equip students with the knowledge and training for work in industry. Half of the student's program is devoted to shop work, and half to class recitation where composition, history, science, and mathematics contribute to a general education.

The shop courses offered are in mechanical drafting, woodwork, electricity—both motors and radio, automobile mechanics, sheet metal, patternmaking, commercial art, and machine shop. Instruction keeps up with the latest technical developments. Radio, for example, includes the theory of television and the newest ideas in electronics as applied to communication. The shop work makes it possible for practical experience to become a part of the learning experience.

So, with five separate curriculums presented in over seventy individual subject preparations, McKeesport High School's program makes available a broad variety of educational opportunities to prepare the student for adult life. Thus does the school serve the community.

Special attention as well as group instruction is part of the teaching program. Miss Bowles is able to observe pupil progress and to make the situation more real by dictating to the individual.

SENIORS

VOCATIONAL

A friendly huddle on the stairway provides the right atmosphere for an informal discussion of senior class government. Class president, Daniel Stashko (at right), listens to the views of Marko Godich, treasurer; Ted Vidnovic, secretary; and Arthur Zanetti, vice-president. Daniel was tops in his drafting class; Arthur was popular in patternmaking; Ted won a letter for being varsity full-back; Marko kept things moving in auto mechanics.

CLASS OFFICERS

TECH

Senior class president Elias Thomas heads the table as the officers discuss committee appointments. Secretary Joanne Wood takes notes; the treasurer, Richard McFadden, and the vice-president, Louise Luehm, make suggestions. Elias held a varsity position on both the football and the basketball squads; Louise was active in the Y-Teens and the Latin Club; Richard was president of the Debate Club, and Joanne was editor-in-chief of the "Red and Blue."

The tapping of shoes and the chattering of voices which mean classes are changing surge around Abraham Lincoln in Tech's front hall.

SENIOR SNAPS

The Senior Prom. The Class of 1948 held its final social event at Syria Mosque on May 14. Chairman Phil Feinert and Joanne Hartnett picked their night well; for the first time in years, there was no rain on Prom night.

First swing session of the year was the Latin Club's Sweater Dance held in the G. W. gym.

Around the Hi-Y's annual tree at the front entrance are Charles Neuschwander, Margaret Winter, Pat Ceres, and Bill Rafferty.

The Senior Girls' Ensemble at a practice of "Frost Flowers."

The Junior Y-Teen's Cranberry Ball at the Penn McKee Hotel on November 25. Chairmen were Corinne Sundquist and Melissa Loeffler.

The Tiger Club's Football Banquet at the Vogue Terrace.

Candy and cake at the YWCA Street Fair held last spring by the Y-Teens' Inter-Club Council to send girls to a Y-Teen conference at Bethany College.

Dolores Maravic — chosen as the John Shaw Memorial Hi-Y's Ideal Girl of the Class of 1948 at their Coronation Ball on April 23, 1948.

The new MHS class ring. Chosen by student ballot from among several competing entries, the design was made by Vocational School's William Larson.

ORGANIZATIONS

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council enables pupils to assist in planning school activities, and at the same time, provides the opportunity for practice in democratic action and living. The two council members, one boy and one girl, are elected in each home room.

These representatives then elect their Executive Council which consists of six officers and nine councilmen, three chosen from each of the senior, junior, and sophomore years. An innovation this year was the inclusion of a faculty sponsor, Mr. Harry C. Pry.

Among the activities of the Council were a "Better Conduct" campaign, noon-hour tea dances in the gym, the purchase of a public address system, and a concert of modern music.

At their regular Wednesday meeting officers and councilmen gather around Sponsor Harry Pry to discuss the agenda for the next Council session.

THE RED AND BLUE

Post-mortem. An editors' conference sizes up one issue and lays plans for the next. Gathered around Editor-in-Chief Joanne Wood are Jerry Spiegel, sports; Duane Michals, news; Sue Mathis, features; Barbara Herold, exchange.

"Student News in a Student Newspaper" has long been the motto of The Red and Blue, now in its twenty-seventh year of publication as the news sheet of M.H.S. Staff members keep well-informed on school events and are alert for incidents of human interest. Learning the meaning of "meeting a deadline," they get valuable training in composition. The paper was directed by Editor-in-Chief Joanne Wood, a staff member since her freshman year, and Faculty Adviser Mr. Foster Beatty, who joined the paper last September.

Assignments. Everybody crowds into a corner of Room 301, publishing office of the school sheet, to get his assignment for "the next one."

THE YOUGH-A-MON

The 1949 Yough-A-Mon staff. FIRST ROW: Joseph Spano, Sharma Railingshafer, Norma Wirtz, Carl Geruschat, Stella Pandel, Editor Jake Osterman, Photography Editor Mary Ann Telliho, Gloria Lyden. SECOND ROW: Business Manager Bernard Runge, Bernice Raible, Joseph

Handa, Joan Jenkins, Joseph Bendel, Copy Editor Joe Ann Bradford, Art Editor William Larson (who made the "little tiger" sketches scattered throughout the book), and Associate Editor Alvin Decker. Not in picture: Arthur Wargo.

The old saw "Experience is the best teacher," probably holds much truth, but sometimes the schooling is severe on the pupil. Every Yough-a-Mon staff member is aware of how severe the experience can be.

All through the term the staff had a growing appreciation of the problems of the Census Bureau and some of those of the Bureau of Standards. Compressing dear old M.H.S. into stiff covers is a job that we found was big and, as the months raced by, grew constantly bigger. And the standards had to be kept up to perfection, or our "boss man," Mr. Gibson, would explode wrath.

Arranging interminable schedules for pictures . . . announcing cancellations caused by fall rains and winter snows . . . planning retakes when some exuberant boy reached for his shoelace just as the shutter clicked . . . tracking down seniors who kept dodging the camera . . . choosing the perfect cover material . . . typing names and names and names . . . selecting photos and thinking something bright to say about them . . . convincing relatives, friends, and even strangers that they should buy more than one copy . . . reading proof till the commas began to waltz with the periods — these are some of the things that became a part of our lives.

But the storm was weathered, and thanks to lots of good will from everyone, the book was sent to the printer. Then teacher Experience did not appear so cruel, for the job was done and there had been much fun along the way.

"Which picture?" asks Photography Editor Mary Ann Tellino. Stella Pandel, Joseph Handa, and Joan Jenkins help her decide.

Copy Editor Joe Ann Bradford types and Sharma Railingshafer takes notes as "moguls" Bernard Runge, Business Manager, and Jake Osterman, Editor, consider the arrangement of the Senior Section with Alvin Decker and Bernice Raible ad-libbing.

CLUBS

Books and classes are only part of the education that the school offers. Learning to work with others, to be a leader, to accept responsibility, to attain worthwhile recreation — these are values which the clubs of the school make possible. Some groups, like the Math Club, are designed to provide informal learning; others, like the Ushers Club, are organized to be of service to the school; still others seek to offer recreation. All of the clubs, however, offer the opportunity for social experience which every pupil should acquire.

In a practice session of "Sorry, Wrong Number," Alan Patterson and William Cox close in on Nancy Zumbro as Mr. Schad gestures for more emotion.

The Dramatics Club, which meets with its adviser, Mr. August M. Schad, in a regular class period five days a week, gives a broad survey of the field of drama. Pupils dramatize skits to gain training in enunciation, voice control, poise, and acting. Original plays are discussed and acted. Assembly programs often call upon the club for contributions, such as the sketch "Santa Saves the Evening" in the Christmas program. Officers were Alan Patterson, president; Nancy Zumbro, vice-president; Matilda Sullivan, secretary, and Joan Cwiek, treasurer.

DRAMATICS CLUB

ART CLUB

Furthering interest in art through group activities, Art Club, guided by Miss Vera Trimble, plans programs for the appreciation of the arts. Some monthly meetings are social while others are work sessions. . . . Latin Club, sponsored by Miss Mary Auld and Mr. Harry Carlson, unites Latin pupils. Activities include parties, dances, a Latin project exhibit, Planetarium trip, and a Roman banquet in costume. . . . Not strictly a club, the Motion Picture Operators group is invaluable to the school. Boys learn to operate projectors, getting Pennsylvania amateur operators' licenses. Supervised by Mr. Ober Crouse, the operators teach lower classmen proper use and care of the machines.

MOTION PICTURE OPERATORS

The Junior Red Cross Council links the school with the national Junior Red Cross organization whose purpose is to assist in bettering conditions here and abroad. The Council, directed by Charles Hanko, decorated the Aspinwall Veterans' Hospital at Halloween, collected 196 boxes for children in Europe, and sent yarn dolls made by home economics girls to European needy.

The Math Club, headed by Miss Amelia Richardson, aims to teach the use of the slide rule in practicing math problems. . . . Sponsored by the YMCA and the YWCA, Penguin Club provides dances at the YMCA every Friday evening. Any high school student is eligible for a membership card. The council, selected by the advisers, Mrs. Thomas and Mr. Priest, elects its own officers.

Miss Helen Jenkins' Ushers Club provides trained ushers at school events such as plays and concerts. . . . Combining social activities with service, the Senior Y-Teens, advised by Mrs. Anne Camic, sold candy, ice cream, and potato chips at the football games, gave baskets of food at Christmas to fifteen needy families, and held a Christmas Carnival for seniors as part of their program.

THIRD ROW: Geraldine Reese, Sue Mathis, Jennie Safos, Patricia Grivna, Joanne Wood, Stella Pandel, Christine Hartman, Inter-Club Council Representative Gladys McCaw.

CLUBS

The John Shaw Memorial Hi-Y, advised by August M. Schad, has character building as its chief aim. The group annually erects a Christmas tree in the front hall, sponsors dances, sells pop at the football games, and gives funds to charitable organizations. . . . Sophomore Y-Teens made themselves available to city organizations as tag salesmen, and under the direction of Mrs. Emma Fedak, made holiday favors for the children's ward at the hospital. . . . Among Miss Mary Ann Mrkonic's Junior Y-Teen girls' activities were the Cranberry Ball and the Valentine Cupid Kaper.

The Tech High Rockettes and the marching band's kingpin. Majorettes Audrey Smith, Betty Robinson, Joan Herbert, Sally Rypka, Lois Malos, Ruth Englert, Beatrice Katz, and Geraldine Reese line up with Drum Major Paul Balles.

The gang that is "out in front" at all the football and basketball games, and at the pep rallies. FIRST ROW: Marlene Fiedler, Phyllis Swartz, Arlene Volk, Jeanne Colditz, Mary Lou Steele. SECOND ROW: August M. Schad, director of the cheerleaders, William Cox, Captain Albert Hughes, Richard Young, Joseph Spano, Robert Ball.

The 100-piece Senior Band is both a marching and a concert organization. Supplemented by a drum major, eight majorettes, and a four-man color guard, the band is outstanding at football games and in parades. Directed by Mr. Edward Garbett and his assistant, Mr. Lawrence De Simone, the group gets an even better opportunity to display its musical techniques in concert performances.

MUSIC

Although the Immediate Band marches in parades and performs in concerts, it exists primarily to enable pupils to prepare themselves for the Senior Band. Here (at right) Mr. Garbett leads the junior group at a practice session. The brass section (below) labors through a Sousa march.

Carols and anthems ring out from Tech's third floor music room as Miss Pauline Reed's A Cappella Choir prepares for Christmas chapel.

For members of the Senior Band, the new school year begins in the middle of August. This advance practice permits the band to present a polished appearance at the opening football game. The remainder of the pigskin season is crammed with practices where new drill steps are worked out and new music, both marches and popular tunes, is mastered. Football over, the band starts rehearsing classical and semi-classical selections for its mid-winter and spring concerts.

The ambition of all choral students is to be accepted as a member of the A Cappella Choir. Ninety voices strong, the A Cappella specializes in sacred music. Every student remembers the impressive processional by the choir, resplendent in maroon and cream robes, at the Christmas chapel.

SENIOR GIRLS' ENSEMBLE

Last May, McKeesport High School's 65 piece Senior Orchestra won the state championship of the Pennsylvania Music and Forensic League held at Oil City, the first championship won in twelve years by the group. The victory was achieved after the successful completion of district contests.

The orchestra practices daily in the auditorium, with string rehearsal set for Mondays. Both classical and contemporary music is played, ranging from Richard Wagner's "Parade of the Meistersingers" to Ferde Grofe's "Three Moods and a Theme."

SENIOR ORCHESTRA

FIRST ROW: Louis Guarascio, Mary Jane Martin, Doris Dzombak, Clara Mae Bauer, Carl Geruschat. Ample opportunity for enjoying group singing is provided by a dozen choirs, choruses, glee clubs, and ensembles. Large groups permit the blending of voices for varied choral effects under the direction of Miss Pauline Reed. Selected groupings of more talented pupils for the Junior, Senior, and Mixed Ensembles allow more exacting work. Still smaller groups, such as the Boys' Double Quartet and the Girls' Triple Trio, get excellent vocal training. Recordings help round out the educational worth of vocal music classes.

SENIOR GIRLS' CHORUS

GIRLS' TRIPLE TRIO

Class singing at assembly programs this year had a new musical accompaniment — a Hammond organ.

The organ is a memorial to graduates and former students of McKeesport High School who died in World War I. A gift of the M.H.S. Alumni Association, the organ was purchased from the accumulated treasury surpluses of the classes of 1930 to 1942.

Formal dedication of the organ was made by Harold Byer, class of 1938, in a senior assembly program on January 26, 1949. Other speakers at the assembly were Superintendent of Schools Dr. James H. Lawson, School Director Dr. Robert M. Heft, School Board Secretary Dr. Leo R. Travis, and Mr. John F. Bower, who was principal of Tech High until 1939.

The organ has been under the supervision of Mr. Edward O. McKee, who is as much at home at the keyboard as he is in his history classes. Students who regularly performed on the organ were senior Carl Geruschat and juniors Carolyn Ferguson and Joanne Svedburg.

BOYS' DOUBLE QUARTET

Gathered around Carl Geruschat at the piano are singers Edward Droppa, Dan Moore, Dick Robison, Walter Warwick, Kenneth Carter, Jerry Curry, Edward Smith, and Bob Giles.

A capacity crowd of 11,000 fans packs World War Memorial Stadium to see McKeesport High's Tigers in action under the lights.

FOOTBALL

Despite the loss of ten regulars from the 1947 squad, Coach Harold Weigle and his assistant, Charles Schaeffer, molded another outstanding aggregation to represent McKeesport High on the gridiron.

One loss and one tie marred the Tigers' otherwise fine record, the heartbreaking 29-0 defeat by the once-beaten Duquesne Dukes and the 6-6 stalemate with the unpredictable Clairton Bears.

Only two veterans of the team that went to the Orange Bowl were back, End Joe Yuna and Tackle George Mrkonic. The remainder of the starting forward wall was composed of Elias Thomas at the other end, Dan Crncic at the other tackle, Allen Hager and Mike Basilone at guards, and Ronald Ferrari at center.

An entirely new backfield took over with Francis Pattera, Ted Vidnovic, Nick Maravic, Howard Thompson, Jim Stoviak, George Galiyas, and Bob Parades alternating at the ball-carrying slots. Thompson was sidelined most of the season with an injured leg. An innovation was the contest with Lorain, Ohio, called "the first annual 'Pipe Bowl' game."

The outlook is bright for another successful season this fall, although all of the first team line with the exception of Basilone will be gone. Pattera, Maravic, and Thompson will return to the backfield and Coach Disegi will send another undefeated Junior Varsity Squad to Coach Weigle.

Ted Vidnovic eludes a tackler to make a first down for the Tigers.

Bob Parades charges down the sideline to squeeze additional yardage before he is stopped.

Galiyas, Hager, Parades, and Crncic mass on the line to hold Duquesne's Pat Gedman.

Tense spectators crowding along the new guard fence reveal the excitement that brings crowds to every grid contest.

Cheers and shouts greeted the hanging of this pep rally sign, but in the game that night the Dukes beat the Tigers.

Elmer Tremont, elected Outstanding Athlete by the Class of 1948, was a halfback in football, a forward in basketball, and a hurdler in track.

Tiger First String. On the line: Elias Thomas, George Mrkonic, Allan Hager, Ronald Ferrari, Mike Basilone, Dan Crncic, Joe Yuna. Backfield: George Galiyas, Nick Meravic, Francis Paterro, Ted Vidnovic, Robert Parades, Robert Thompson.

Football is more than a game. It is a spectacle. Even the most serious student of the sport cannot escape the glamour that surrounds every contest. Enthusiastic excitement is everywhere; in the milling, cheering crowds, in the endless rush of hurrying fans past the busy ticket takers, in the school yells led by dancing cheerleaders, in the floodlights as they change the inky black of the field to a soft green, in the complex formations of the uniformed bands at the half, in the cries of vendors selling coke, popcorn, and red hots, in the magic of the ever-changing scoreboard, and always in the singing of Alma Mater.

The Lorain game will always be remembered for the mud which made players unrecognizable. Here Ted Vidnovic scores a T. D.

The half-time feature, "Big Brass Band from Brazil," gets a visit from the Tiger.

At the Tiger Club Football Banquet are chief speaker George Munger, University of Pennsylvania football coach; speaker Rodney Adams, M. H. S., '45 and University of Pennsylvania '49; and McKeesport's Coach Harold Weigle.

After tying with Clairton in their season opener, Coach Ben Disegi's Junior Varsity squad moved to the winning column for the duration. Only Duquesne offered close competition, but two extra goals preserved the record.

FOURTH ROW: Ronald Moore, Allen Porter, Lou Wunderly, Bill Godfrey, Ralph Blackwell, Steve Evanovich, John Gilwreath, Herby Halpern, Bill Butler. Not in picture: Gary Shaw, Dwight Dunn.

As half-time approaches, a majorette checks with her compact. The band uses a reserved section of the student bleachers.

"Come on, team. Let's go!" chant the cheerleaders as they get the students to yell encouragement.

VICTORY CRY

Vict'ry will always be our cry.

It's V-I-C-T-O-R-Y.

Then we'll all stand up and shout,

"Go, boys." Really shout it out.

Banners wave of red and blue,

Wave for me and for you.

Our school is really on the beam

With an A-I fighting Tiger team.

"Victory Cry" is the new school song, introduced during football season. Band member Wesley Slease, Class of '49, composed the words to the tune "Khaki Bill" by Harry L. Watson.

Hours of practice—and not in fancy uniforms—are behind the smooth formations the band stages at the games.

Quarterback Francis Paterra shakes a tackler and gets into the clear.

BASKETBALL

Coach "Neenie" Campbell's cagers posted a creditable record as they finished in a deadlock with the Duquesne Dukes for third place in Section 6.

The team was built around Forward Elias Thomas, only returning letterman. The rest of the starting lineup was selected from Jerry Adams, Tom Gossman, Charles Neuschwander, Chester Palesko, Steve Monoyoudis, and Sophomores Jim McNerney and Robbie Seitz.

The Tigers won eleven and lost ten with a five and five record in league play. Homestead, Section 6 champions, was the only team to take the Campbellmen twice.

WRESTLING

Still a young sport at McKeesport High School, wrestling this year interested more prospective team members and more spectators. Coach Charles E. Schaeffer's squad practiced every afternoon from four until six, perfecting holds such as the half nelson and the bar arm. Winners in practice sessions earned the right to compete in the matches. Wrestlers are matched carefully by weight in these classes: 88, 95, 102, 120, 127, 133, 138, 145, 154, 165, and 185 pounds. Winners are determined by points received for such maneuvers as taking an opponent down, escaping a hold, or getting a reversal.

BASEBALL

SECTION 16 CHAMPIONS

Coach Albert T. Fallquist's 1948 baseball team fought through a close season to emerge at the top of the Section 16 WPIAL race. Forced to play an abbreviated schedule because of unusually wet weather, the team was chosen by a WPIAL committee to meet Munhall in a game to determine the section winner. The play-off at Munhall on May 18 saw Don Hickman pitch a four-hit game, leading his teammates to a 5-0 victory.

In the line-up, Tremont played first base; Misenhelter and Adams, second; Gustafson and Adams, shortstop; Payne and Browne, third; Come and McClymont, left field; Liptak and Schaffner, center field; Neuschwander and Yuna, right field; Beck, Volesan, Haidle, catchers; Hickman, Delo, Stahurski, Graham, and Coughlin, pitchers; McCaffrey, Steele and Volas, managers.

High hurdles at the Vocational School track. The new track was used for the first time by Coach Thomas Vargo's thinclads on April 20 in a meet with Greensburg.

TRACK

The 1948 Track Team. Track offers variety, for in addition to races such as the 100-yard dash and the mile, there are events like hurdles, shot put, broad jump, and discus throw. In the Connessville WPIAL meet Tremont placed third in the high hurdles; Robinson, fifth in the mile, and the 880-yard relay team, fifth.

Percy Edwards (left) is set to hit the tape in the 100-yard dash at the Vocational school track. Second is another Tiger, Bill Hoey, while Bob Burton of McKeesport (second from left) ties for third. Mike Brash is the timer.

TENNIS

Coach Joe Black's 1948 tennis outfit brought home a .40 season. They trimmed New Kensington twice, but could not overcome Latrobe or Central Catholic. Home games were played at the Renzie Park courts.

GOLF

Wilkinsburg was the only team to be set back by the 1948 Golf Team, coached by "Nenie" Campbell. Both Greensburg and Jeannette twice subdued the swinging Tigers while Latrobe whipped them once. But even though the season's record showed five losses and one win, the boys had lots of fun and lots of golf.

Coach Campbell eyes a practice shot on green number 9 with Charles Kessler putting and Keith Telavinia holding the marker.

His driver poised, Keith Telavinia is ready for a long shot on the Country Club course.

GIRLS' SPORTS

Though organized sports are monopolized by the boys, Tech High girls have ample opportunity for exercise. Mrs. Orend's regular gym classes (pictured at the top of the page) featured calisthenics, volleyball, and basketball. Something new this year was the evening basketball program (pictured at the bottom of the page) under the guidance of Miss Helen Jenkins.

TECH JUNIORS

James Conelly prepares a report for Mr. Doehla's consumer economics class.

ROOM 300

FIRST ROW: Evelyn Hromi, Charlotte Moritz, Virginia Mills, Nancy Richards, Rose Teti, Jean Leibold, Catherine Yukic, Dorothy Fencik, Clara Mae Miller, Donna Patton, Fern Hess. SECOND ROW: Joyce Wasson, Mildred Puskar, Lois Yerkey, Elizabeth Puchalik, Donald Rollin, Emil Kolesar, George Finney, Bruce Miller, Michael Pandel, Reynold Blid, Mary Jane Ritzig, Janice Fronis, Marilyn Rice, Eleanor Tomko. THIRD ROW: Josephine Hyzy, Robert Ball, Morrell Dodds, Harold James, Gaye MacArthur, Nancy Ehrhardt, Marjorie Irvine, Ralph Corrado, Jay Inks, Shirley Schultz, John Steiner, Florence De Felice.

A junior is contented. Satisfied with his course of study, well acquainted with the building, supplied with a circle of chums, he is at home in his school. New experiences await him, however. Typing and shorthand become exacting; the foreign language he has chosen is at first puzzling. Chemistry classes such as Mr. Fallquist's (at the right) and geometry classes like Miss Richardson's (top, page 90) unfold new horizons of learning.

"May I have a ticket?" Philip Albensi, Marlene Swanson, Betty Harrison, and Sara Schmidt line up at the counter in the main office to buy tickets for the Mid-Winter Festival. Tech High's two secretaries, Miss Claire Mae Haler (left) and Mrs. Elizabeth Limberg are always busy with such requests. Their duties include preparing the daily bulletin, answering the telephone, typing letters and reports, sorting mail, and keeping the records every large organization demands.

Conferences on the walk are as important a part of the lunch hour as the food. Here groups gather outside Tech High on a balmy October noon.

Some cloth, a needle, a little thread, a stylish pattern—and these junior girls have a fashionable new dress.

ROOM 310

FIRST ROW: Bob Roth, Dolores Kolosary, Joan Kalkbrenner, Colleen Nee, Arnett Kirkland, Emma Jean McLure, Sari Ayoub, Joan Miller, Shirley Seidling, Marlene Geissler, Vera Mae Lesso. TECH SOPHOMORES

The sophomore is overwhelmed on his first day by the huge building and the myriad students. He sees longer halls than he thought possible, steps that allow one way traffic, a green campus with trees and flowers, two cafeterias with food in abundance, well-stocked laboratories, and impressive-looking typing rooms. After a few weeks, he feels quite at home, glad to belong to the big school. New subjects, new environment, new teachers, and new friends combine to enrich this fresh chapter of his school life.

The junior has made a final choice of the shop in which he will major. He is ready to experience the joy of shaping raw materials into finished products. His tools may be the brush of commercial art, the chisel of woodwork, the voltmeter of electricity, or the power tools of machine shop. And the tools must be mastered, for the tool is only as effective as the skill of the hand that guides it.

Bob Karnak sands a job in the wood-working shop.

The sophomore is impressed by the changes in his school life. All that his friends have told him about the building seems to fall short of what he finds for himself. The compact classrooms, the fully-equipped shops, the enormous gymnasium, the clean-cut newness of everything transform him at once into an ardent supporter of his school. His daily program receives the greatest alteration. Now he spends only half of his time in regular classes. Every second week he meets the machines in the shop.

A freshman—when there are no upperclassmen about—feels important and mature. He has for years regarded high school students with awe, and awe the older student does much to encourage. Now, the pattern of eight years is changed. The many subjects of grade school are replaced with a single "course" with only four major subjects. The school day spent in one or two rooms is replaced with a "schedule" that brings a sense of responsibility with its new freedom.

GEORGE WASHINGTON FRESHMEN

The freshman is asked, "What do you want to be?" Proud to be so questioned, he is, nevertheless, reluctant to answer. While ambition urges him to speak, uncertainty restrains his decision. Now that he must plan his place in the community, he finds himself suddenly on the threshold of adulthood. So, with varied feelings he sets out to follow the curriculum of his choice. He has already discovered the world in which he lives. He will now begin to discover himself.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY

In Memoriam

ALICE CARLSON

A freshman at George Washington, Alice Carlson died on May 24, 1948, after an extended illness. She was born in McKeesport on September 23, 1933.

CHRISTMAS PLAY

The Christmas assembly featured the Dramatics Club's "Santa Saves the Evening," directed by Mr. August M. Schad, which told how Santa, played by Alan Patterson, helped Mother, Patricia Sullivan, convince the family that there really is a Santa Claus. Others in the cast: Jeanne Col-ditz, Harry Clewer, Elsie Bachisin, Duane Black, Lillian Stoyadinovich. Make-up and costumes were by Beverley Wunderly; scenery, by Bill Cox and Bob Sharp.

Christmas Dance

Rachel Witherow and Richard Robison were chairmen of the Class of 1949's Christmas Dance held December 22 in the Vocational gymnasium.

Sadie Hawkins' Dance

Over 330 "mountaineers" in overalls, jeans, plaid shirts, and vegetable corsages crowded Vocational gym on May 3, 1948, for the Student Council's Sadie Hawkins' Dance.

GRADUATION, 1948

The conclusion of a twelve-year journey. Above: The Class of 1948 just before they receive diplomas. Below: Dr. Erdman Harris, headmaster of Shady Side Academy, delivers the address "The Forward Look"; Dr. James H. Lawson presents diplomas; the grand procession moves to the stadium.

Thus ends the story of this year at McKeesport High School. You have met our world — classes, teachers, buildings, clubs, activities. . . . Beyond the doorway, bright in the sunshine, is the promise of adult life.
